Accuracy and integrity for the last 125 years NCRA celebrates its history and the importance of choosing a certified professional during 2025 Celebrate Certification Month

RESTON, Va., April 15, 2025 — The National Court Reporters Association (NCRA) is hosting its ninth Celebrate Certification Month in May. NCRA is the country’s leading organization representing stenographic court reporters, captioners, and legal videographers.

Throughout the month members who hold national certifications from NCRA will share with their clients, employers, and the public why certification means they are working with the best in the business. May also serves as a reminder for members to keep increasing their skills by adding more certification letters after their names. The month is also designed to encourage those who have yet to earn a national certification to make a commitment to invest in themselves and earn one.

“My RPR reminds me every day of the proficiency I provide to my judge and the public every day with the work that I do. It is not just a symbol of proficiency, but also a badge of honor that I wear with honor to show my commitment to my profession and the important role I serve in the court where I work,” said NCRA President-Elect Cindy L. Isaacsen, RPR, an official court reporter from Shawnee, Kan.

Isaacsen encourages all members and court reporting students to also use the month as a platform to remind the public that any artificial intelligence, digital recording, or automated speech recognition lacks the emotional feelings and ability to capture the nature or true meaning of what is said, making stenography the gold standard when it comes to accuracy and integrity in capturing the official record in the courtroom, boardroom, or classroom, or providing captioning services to those who benefit from it.

NCRA offers the following nationally recognized professional certifications:

Registered Skilled Reporter \(RSR\): The RSR recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. Created as a stepping stone credential to ultimately achieve the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation, the RSR certification will offer the prestige of an NCRA certification for those early in their careers. Candidates do not need to be members of NCRA in order to take the RSR Exam. Candidates must pass three five-minute Skills Tests (SKT) that evaluate their skills in literary at 160 words per minute, jury charge at 180 words per minute, and testimony/Q&A at 200 per minute, with a 95 percent accuracy rate on each leg to pass.

Registered Professional Reporter \(RPR\): RPR stenographic court reporters are among the top contributors to the profession in terms of technology, reporting skills, and professional practices. The RPR has been offered since 1937, and many states currently accept or use the certification testing in place of a state certification or licensing exams. RPRs have passed tests requiring them to write up to 225 words per minute with a 95 percent accuracy rate.

Registered Merit Reporter \(RMR\): RMRs must hold the RPR and have shown the ability to write at speeds of up to 260 words per minute with a 95 percent accuracy rate.

Registered Diplomate Reporter \(RDR\): The RDR designates the highest level of certification available to court reporters and distinguishes high-level, seasoned reporters as members of the profession's elite.

Certified Realtime Reporter \(CRR\): The CRR recognizes a realtime reporter's knowledge of current technologies and a high proficiency of at least a 96 percent accuracy rate at speeds up to 200 words per minute. Realtime reporting instantly translates the spoken word to text, allowing for an immediate transcription of proceedings.

Certified Realtime Captioner \(CRC\): CRCs have passed a skills test, a written exam, and attended an educational workshop. The CRC tests for competence and provides quality education to those who are interested in entering the captioning field

Certified Reporter Instructor \(CRI\): CRIs are educators, administrators, and reporters who are NCRA Associate members and have attended a 13-hour NCRA Council on Approved Student Education-sponsored session designed to expand their level of knowledge for becoming more effective realtime reporting instructors. CRIs are knowledgeable about the learning process, versed in the development of course syllabi and lesson plans, and are able to interact through role play of various courtroom scenarios.

Certified Legal Video Specialist \(CLVS\): CLVSs hold a high level of skill and understanding of all aspects of video deposition recording, court proceedings, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and deposition best practices.

Court reporters and captioners rely on the latest in technology to use stenographic machines to capture the spoken word and translate it into written text in real time. These professionals work both in and out of the courtroom recording legal cases and depositions, providing live captioning of
